

The Salvation Army youth programs include a variety of activities for children ages 6-18.

Adventure Corps, Sunbeams and Girl Guards are badge-based, character building programs which provide a holistic Christian education experience.

Gospel Arts teach children how to participate in worship through a variety of methods such as drama and timbrels and music classes such as brass, piano, guitar and singing.

The Salvation Army Adventure Corps is for boys in grades 1-8; Explorers are grades 1-4 while Rangers are grades 5-8.

Adventure Corps focuses on Christ-centered character building using badge work as a tool. The boys enrolled in the program work hard on emblems such as hiking, camping, carpentry, career work, theater arts, sports, archery and much more.

Sunbeams is for girls in grades 1-5; Girl Guards is for girls in grades 6-12.

Sunbeams is a fun-filled program that helps girls develop socially, mentally and spiritually. From learning to help at home to assisting others in the community and respecting nature; Sunbeams teaches young girls how they can make a difference in the world around them.

Skill-development, personal growth and community service opportunities expand as girls learn to work together and independently in various environments. They are also encouraged to think seriously about career and life-style choices as they move into adulthood.

We offer free music classes in brass, vocal, guitar, piano, timbrel, dance and drama. Those who participate learn skills, discipline, team building, and citizenship lessons that will accompany them into adulthood and influence their life choices.
